

WELL Health Forms New Business Unit Focused on Allied Health Services

- WELL Health has formed “WELL Health Allied Care Inc.” (or “WELL Allied”), a new subsidiary primarily focused on operating, investing in and/or unlocking opportunities associated with allied health offerings such as physiotherapy, rehabilitation, occupational therapy, chiropractic, dietary, mental health counselling and sleep related services.
- WELL Allied will be focused on: (i) empowering allied health professionals with digital resources such as WELL's Electronic Medical Record (EMR) and telehealth capabilities in order to advance their practices and allow them to better support patients; and (ii) activating a greater degree of multidisciplinary and team based longitudinal care in WELL's own portfolio of owned and operated medical Clinics such that WELL patients can receive a greater degree of integrated patient centric care.
- WELL Allied is already reviewing a strong pipeline of allied health related business opportunities. The new operating unit will be initially overseen by WELL's Chief Medical Officer Dr. Michael Frankel and supported by WELL's professionally managed shared services teams.

Vancouver, BC, September 28, 2020 – WELL Health Technologies Corp (TSX: WELL) (the “Company” or “WELL”), a company focused on consolidating and modernizing clinical and digital assets within the primary healthcare sector, is pleased to announce the formation of its new business unit called WELL Health Allied Care Inc. (“WELL Allied”), which will be a consolidation point for a number of key operating activities and investments related to specialized care in identifying, evaluating, preventing and treating a range of conditions and illnesses including, but not limited to, physiotherapy, rehabilitation, dietary, chiropractic, mental health counselling and sleep related services. WELL Allied will include health practitioners working in a collaborative environment to support primary care physicians in a multi-disciplinary, team-based care support model.

“The overarching goal of WELL Allied is to empower allied health professionals with leading edge digital tools that allow them to advance their businesses and provide patients with the very best integrated care possible,” said Hamed Shahbazi, Chairman and CEO of WELL. “We view allied health as an exciting opportunity to not only grow as a company but also improve continuity of care and positively impact health outcomes.

WELL Allied is seeking to establish investments and commercial agreements with leading allied care providers from across Canada."

WELL Allied is WELL's fifth business unit, augmenting the Company's current business units: WELL Health Clinic Network, WELL EMR Group, WELL Digital Health Apps and Cycura. WELL's objective is to be a disciplined and strategic allocator of capital to themes and opportunities that benefit from the digitization of healthcare. As such, WELL Allied will include WELL's prior majority ownership stake in SleepWorks Medical Inc. ("SleepWorks"), and any future allied health related acquisitions and services. WELL has already developed a pipeline of compelling opportunities for the WELL Allied business unit that are benefiting from the thriving growth in the allied health sector.

WELL Allied will be initially overseen by WELL's Chief Medical Officer Dr. Michael Frankel and supported by WELL's professionally managed shared services teams. WELL Allied will assist allied health professionals with digitization of their practices through WELL's EMR and digital health applications, including the Company's VirtualClinic+ telehealth platform.

WELL's Chief Medical Officer, Dr. Michael Frankel commented, "I am excited to be overseeing this new business unit within WELL. Our SleepWorks and Spring Medical Centre acquisitions have been very successful in demonstrating how well allied health professionals can work in partnership with primary care providers. SleepWorks has proven to be resilient though the pandemic and is currently experiencing strong growth on a YoY basis. Meanwhile Spring Medical continues to be a model clinic in terms of delivery of integrative health services provided from one location."
